Sweden, Denmark Pause Moderna's COVID Vaccine for Younger Age Groups Citing Reports of Myocarditis

Sweden will pause Moderna's COVID vaccine for people under age 30, while Denmark said it will halt use of Moderna's vaccine in people under age 18.

Sweden and Denmark on Wednesday said they will pause the use of Moderna's COVID vaccine for younger age groups after reports of possible rare side effects, including myocarditis.

The Swedish health agency said it would pause the vaccine for people born in 1991 and later, as data pointed to an increase of myocarditis and pericarditis among youths and young adults who had been vaccinated, Reuters reported.

"The connection is especially clear when it comes to Moderna's vaccine, 'Spikevax,' especially after the second dose," the health agency said in a statement.

The health agency said it now recommends Pfizer/BioNTech's Comirnaty vaccine instead. People born 1991 or later who received a first Moderna dose — approximately 81,000 people — will not get a second Moderna jab.

Earlier this week, the Swedish health agency said 12- to 15-year-olds would only get Pfizer's COVID vaccine.

Denmark said that, while it was already using the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine as the main option for 12- to 17-year-olds, it had decided to pause the Moderna vaccine for people under 18 as a "precautionary principle."

"In the preliminary data … there is a suspicion of an increased risk of heart inflammation, when vaccinated with Moderna," the Danish Health Authority said in a statement.

The agency referred to data from a yet unpublished Nordic study, which will be sent to the European Medicines Agency (EMA) for further assessment once the data is finalized, the agency added.

Norway, which already recommends the Comirnaty vaccine for minors, reiterated Wednesday rare side effects could happen, particularly in boys and young men, and mainly after receiving a second dose.

The EMA approved the use of Comirnaty in May, while Spikevax was approved for use in children over 12 in July, U.S. News reported.

Myocarditis is inflammation of the heart muscle that can lead to cardiac arrhythmia and death. According to the National Organization for Rare Disorders, myocarditis can result from infections, but "more commonly the myocarditis is a result of the body's immune reaction to the initial heart damage."

Pericarditis is inflammation of the tissue surrounding the heart that can cause sharp chest pain and other symptoms.

According to the the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System, there have been 6,561 cases of myocarditis and pericarditis reported following COVID vaccines, with 5,874 cases attributed to Pfizer, 1,515 cases to Moderna and 161 cases to Johnson & Johnson's COVID vaccine between Dec. 14, 2020 and Sept. 24, 2021.

Among 12- to 17-year-olds, there have been 617 reports of myocarditis and pericarditis, with 603 cases attributed to Pfizer's vaccine.

On June 25, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) added a warning to patient and provider fact sheets for both Pfizer and Moderna COVID vaccines suggesting an increased risk of myocarditis and pericarditis — particularly following the second dose and with onset of symptoms within a few days after vaccination.

The FDA's update followed a June 23 meeting which included a review of information and discussion by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices — a committee within the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) that provides advice and guidance on effective control of vaccine-preventable diseases.

During the meeting, the committee acknowledged 1,200 cases of heart inflammation in 16- to 24-year-olds, and said mRNA COVID vaccines should carry a warning statement.

Health officials said the benefits of receiving a COVID vaccine still outweigh any risks. But physicians and other public commenters during the June 23 meeting accused the CDC of exaggerating the risk of COVID to young people, and minimizing the risk of the vaccines.

The FDA approved Pfizer's COVID vaccine for emergency use in the 12 to 15 age group in May, and approved a biologics license application for the Pfizer Comirnaty vaccine Aug. 23 — leaving the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine under Emergency Use Authorization.

A third booster dose of Pfizer's COVID vaccine was approved for the immunocompromised and those in "high risk" professions in September — in what was deemed a controversial move by the CDC and FDA, both of which overruled the recommended guidance issued by their vaccine advisory committees.

In June, Moderna asked the FDA to expand emergency use of its COVID vaccine in adolescents aged 12 to 17. A decision has yet to be made.

Both Moderna and Johnson & Johnson (J&J) have asked the FDA to approve booster doses of their COVID vaccines for emergency use. The FDA will convene its advisory panel next week to review booster data from both J&J and Moderna.

Why vaccinate ANY KIDS? Why use the PFIZER? What just because the kids aren't getting heart attacks? Sweden and Denmark should man-up and STOP all vaccinations for an illness that doesn't even exist for kids!

NO ONE needs these shots. The Israel study showed up to 1 in 3,000 were getting myocarditis, this should halt the drug ENTIRELY with all its other issues. The experts going around minimizing the seriousness of HEART INFLAMMATION to push poison are in violation of licensing and ethical standards. And, it is happening in older age groups, it is just EASIER to cover up later heart issues and attribute the damage to something else, they can't do that with the kids or it would be covered up in the exact same way. The doctors are paid off, scared, or brainwashed. https://www.science.org/new...

Why who would be so stupid ,to claim it's not so good for kids but ,good for every one else ? Hell no it's poison for every one ,especially for older people ,who often have some other health issues ,besides advanced age ,the shot simply is another nail in the preparation of our coffin ,anyone young or old .

Why would Sweden do such a thing as to start vaccinations anyway? They were over the pandemic already.

80 % of adults are now fully vaccinated in Sweden, and the hospitalisations from Covid-19 where 5 times higher this year than last year during the same time period (september data). The authorities and media blames the unvaccinated. (I live in Sweden)

Thank you for reporting from Sweden. I wonder why they blame unvaccinated people for this. Has it been shown that THEY are the ones that compose the majority of cases? What is the percentage of those hospitalized? In some places the previously vaccinated are most of the ones being hospitalized now.

Tiram ↗ Greebo • 18 hours ago

Yes, it is very strange indeed that they blame the unvaccinated. And as you say, most people who are hospitalized are probably vaccinated, but in different ways they manage to cover this up. People in Sweden are very obedient and brainwashed, and generally highly trust the authorities and the "science". Anyone who have a different opinion around health are bullied and belittled. Sweden might seem like a great country since we did not have lockdowns or mask mandates, but I think it is because the Swedish people are so obedient, and do exactly as they are told, for example regarding this "vaccine". We are told in the news and by the authorities that in order to get control of this pandemic everyone needs to get vaccinated, so almost everyone is taking it, without any questioning.

The recent weeks there has been reports though, even in the news, that fully vaccinated staff in care homes for elderly people have been transmitting the disease to the elderly since they did not have any symtoms. And at the same disease to the elderly since they did not have any symptoms. And at the same time they say that unvaccinated staff should not be working with elderly. It makes no sense at all. Also, they are soon starting to distribute a third dose of vaccine to the elderly. We are few who dares to question what's going on. I'm just hoping that people soon will wake up. But unfortunately it might be too late for many :-(.

So the thing about younger age groups. This came out during the FDA advisory panel on approval. We hear a lot about how this vaccination carries higher risks given age < n years. Its the level of health which declines as we age thrown into a big formula that confounds what is really going on. Bottom line, the worse your health, the higher the potential for negative outcomes with a COVID infection you have. The higher chance of negative outcome from infection you have... the "safer" vaccination becomes as its measured in terms of risk/benefit. Its a load of crap. This is averaged among huge populations. The problem is, no one is average. If you were tremendously out of shape at age 30, and you are are in much better shape at age 45 after lifestyle adjustments, then the risk of negative side effects from vaccination could very well be higher at age 45 than they would have been at age 30 simply because you are at much lower risk from negative outcomes from COVID based on health. I think they referenced the age of 40 as a sweet spot, meaning heart issues are more common after this magic number, so basically... Its ok if the vax causes heart problems because compared to you know the average American, its not that uncommon to have heart problems after 40 anyways. Further more, they arrive at this number of 40 by averaging in heart problems after 40 anyways. Further more, they arrive at this number of 40 by averaging in 75, 80 year olds. Its like we are split into two groups based on an arbitrary number over 40, under 40... and its not uncommon to die when you are over 40, but more uncommon to die when you are under 40. BS math, BS science. Its not that this vaccine is safer because you are older, it doesn't get any safer with age, its the other number that is sliding (i.e. the waistline, the blood pressure, the scale)...

If you look at the VAERS stats it shows that Pfizer's case count of pericarditis and myocarditis are the highest at 5874. This stat far outways Moderna 1515 in it's cases. One would think that perhaps we should not inject either of these vaccines into anyone, let alone the younger aged population. Where's the critical thinking? How can anyone say these "vaccines" are safe is beyond me. With the rate of breakthrough infections one would think people would start to wake up.

Covid-19 is a disease of attribution to other cause. The tests don't work, so what is being treated? It is the HUGE elephant in the room of everyone pushing this - many of the opposition leads have outed the tests don't work and they are rigging the numbers and then they tell us we need pesticides to cure a false positive test result. No cures or vaccines needed, only ending of the SCAM tests which is driving the whole charade. Gates is funding Ivermectin studies, https://www.unite4truth.com...

Because parasites are the main driven causes of all diseases that feeds bacteria in our bodies, our viruses when awaken by overload of toxins made by parasites, fungus or bacteria are responsible to tell the body it's time to detox, and sometimes the intensity of that function can be dangerous to our bodies because of the inflammation that causes and starts attacking healthy cells. This is why viruses does not kill but the reaction your body does when detox toxins, so is important to eat a healthy diet so the toxins aren't overloading our bodies, fasting is another way of cleaning your body from toxins.

Olga ↗ Rose • 2 days ago

This is a matter of opinion and knowledge it seems because I've got this information from top highly educated people who supports what I said, main causes of disease is the overload of parasites, bacteria and fungus. viruses are there to communicate with our immune system for the body must do a detox. We have evolved with viruses and we all carry viruses that are dormant when we are healthy, only they awaken when our immune system is overwhelmed with toxins (parasites) that the body must detox. We haven't been told what viruses really are and what are for.

When there are risks that include permanent heart damage and death, then by definition it is not safe.

Moreover, those risks need to be considered on an individual basis as compared to the risk of contracting Covid and having equivalent reactions. Consequently, mandates and punitive measures for the unvaccinated are immoral. Period.
